

Name: _____

Preview
Please log in to download
the printable version of this worksheet.

Underwater Adventure

By Kelly Hashway

Andy slumped in his seat and moaned. His father had dragged him along for all the weekend errands. Andy just wanted to go home and play video games, but his dad insisted they spend quality time together.

“How many more places do we have to go?” Andy asked after the fourth stop. They’d already been to the bank, the supermarket, the post office, and the dry cleaner. He couldn’t imagine what they could possibly have left to do.

“Just one more.” His father smiled. “I saved the best for last.”

Andy didn’t think any errands were fun. “Oh no, we aren’t going school clothes shopping, are we?”

“No. This is much more exciting.”

Andy worried his dad might not have

Name: _____

the same definition of exciting that he had, but he tried to be hopeful. After the bank, how boring could this errand be?

His dad pulled up at The Bubble Palace. Andy groaned. The name was much more interesting than the actual place.

"The car wash? How is this exciting?" Andy crossed his arms in protest.

"You'll see," his dad said.

Andy expected his dad to pull into an open garage kind of building and get out to use the hose. But instead he pulled up above. The water pounded down on the car and Andy smiled.

Preview

Please log in to download the printable version of this worksheet.

Underwater adventure? Were they driving into water or something?

Andy watched in silence as his dad paid the attendant and pulled the car onto a strange kind of conveyor belt.

"Shouldn't we get out of the car?" Andy asked.

"You could, but you'd miss the best part." His dad took his hands off the wheel as the car was pulled forward.

They drove through a black plastic mat hanging from the ceiling of the drive through. Andy stared in amazement as the car was sprayed with water from said. "It's like being a fish or some other sea creature, isn't it?"

Andy rolled his eyes, but as the car was pulled through a drying station that blew air and wiped the car with a bunch of wiggling felt strips, Andy said, "Hey, that looks like an octopus wrapping us up in its arms!"

"Now you're getting it." His dad patted his shoulder.

They came out of the car wash.

"See," his dad said, "not all errands are boring."

"Can we do that again?" Andy asked.

Name: _____

Underwater Adventure

By Kelly Hashway

1. Andy is probably...
 - a. a baby
 - b. a toddler
 - c. a young boy
 - d. more than 21 years old
2. Explain how the car wash in this story was different from the car washes Andy had visited before.

Preview
Please log in to download
the printable version of this worksheet.

bored	clever	sick	frustrated
-------	--------	------	------------

4. At the car wash, Andy and his dad...
 - a. become upset with each other
 - b. see a real octopus
 - c. pretend they are underwater
 - d. get out of the car and wash it with a hose
5. In this story, Andy doesn't enjoy running errands with his father. In your own words, write a definition for the word errand.

Name: _____

Underwater Adventure

Fill in the missing letters to create a vocabulary word from the story. Then write the full word on the line. Be sure you spell each word correctly.

1. ___ n s ___ s ___ e d _____

hint: demanded

2. h ___ n i ___ a _____

Preview
Please log in to download the printable version of this worksheet.

hint: short trip to do something or buy something

5. c ___ n v ___ y o ___ ___ e l t _____

hint: large moving mat (2 words)

6. ___ c ___ ___ p ___ s _____

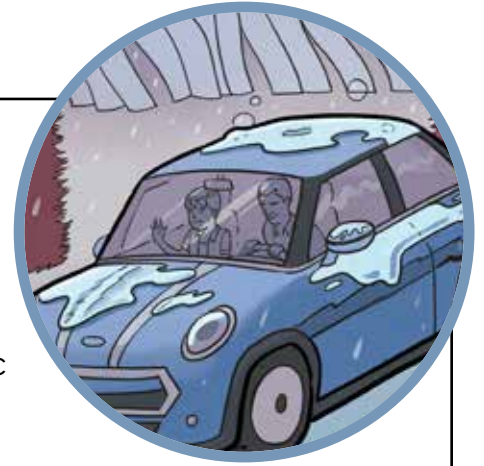

hint: sea creature with 8 arms

7. p r ___ t ___ s t _____

hint: showing that you do not like something

Name: _____

Underwater Adventure

In the story, "Underwater Adventure," Andy visits an automatic car wash for the first time. It is very different from the self-serve car wash he visits with his mother.

Write two paragraphs. In the first, tell how automatic car washes and self-serve car washes are the same. In the second paragraph, write about how they're different.

Preview
Please log in to download
the printable version of this worksheet.

ANSWER KEY

Underwater Adventure

By Kelly Hashway

1. Andy is probably...

a. a baby

c. a young boy

b. a toddler

d. more than 21 years old

Preview

Please log in to download
the printable version of this worksheet.

An errand is a short trip to buy something or pick something up.

ANSWER KEY

Underwater Adventure

Fill in the missing letters to create a vocabulary word from the story. Then write the full word on the line. Be sure you spell each word correctly.

1. i n s i s t e d

insisted

hint: demanded

Preview

Please log in to download
the printable version of this worksheet.

